New Journal

Asian Medicine – Tradition and Modernity is a multidisciplinary journal aimed at researchers and practitioners of Asian medicine in Asia as well as in Western countries. It makes available in one single publication academic essays that explore the historical, anthropological, sociological and philological dimensions of Asian medicine as well as practice reports from clinicians based in Asia and in Western countries.

With the recent upsurge of interest in non-Western alternative approaches to health care, Asian Medicine – Tradition and Modernity will be of relevance to those studying the modifications and adaptations of traditional medical systems on their journey to non-Asian settings. It will also be relevant to those who wish to learn more about the traditional background and practice of Asian medicine within its countries of origin.

On account of its appeal to scholars from a range of academic backgrounds (such as history, anthropology, philology, sociology, archaeology) as well as to practitioners based in Asia and in Western medical institutions and alternative health care settings, the journal constitutes a unique resource for both scholarly and clinically focused institutions.

Asian Medicine – Tradition and Modernity is the Journal of the International Association for the Study of Traditional Asian Medicine (IASTAM). IASTAM's aim is to promote and encourage the study of traditional medicine as theory and practice, including both the 'classical' systems and local and tribal traditions, in all their aspects - historical, philosophical, anthropological, sociological, and scientific. It is a forum for both academics and practitioners and privileges the free exchange of knowledge over involvement in any particular commercial interest or therapeutic regime. Subscription to the journal is not restricted to IASTAM members, and contributions to future issues of Asian Medicine – Tradition and Modernity are encouraged from members as well as non-members. See for further details on IASTAM membership <http://www.iastam.org>
